

Jacob Odame-Baiden

Mr Jacob Odame-Baiden is currently pursuing professional legal training to be called to the Ghana Bar. He has vast experience in technology project management and ICT for Development and has worked in technology consulting and telecommunication sectors in Ghana and other African countries.

A curator of issues related to technology access on the Digital Watch observatory, Jacob provides regular updates of on Internet governance development from the Africa region.

He holds a Master's in Communication Technology Policy from Ohio University, USA; an LLB Law degree from the University of London; and a BA in Computer Science and Economics (Dual major) from the University of Ghana. His areas of interests include access and legal issues in Internet governance.